

Superintendent's Manual™

For Superintendents – By Superintendents

Purpose

Superintendent's Manual is a knowledge hub for best practices in shipbuilding and ship operations, and provides up-to-date operational, technical and regulatory information for ship superintendents and other marine personnel.

Features

- Detailed and comprehensive information related to operational procedures and technical matters, including descriptions of systems and components, checklists, forms and examples of practical solutions and precautions.
- Built on DNV's know-how and expertise, contributions from recognised shipping organisations, experienced superintendents and other marine personnel.
- A company's private "work space", where individuals can store and colleagues can share information.
- Excellent search functionality for quick access to content.
- Supports direct access from mobile devices: <http://mobile.superintendentsmanual.com>
- A fully web-based service

Benefits

- A user-friendly tool which helps improve the quality and efficiency of daily work.
- Facilitates the planning, contracting and building of safer and more cost-effective ships.
- Describes inspection work and procedures with focus on technical details where errors and poor workmanship are frequent and where the consequences of uncorrected faults may be serious.
- Contributes to increased safety and reduced costs.
- Assists in more efficient cooperation within the individual shipping company and between the company and its business partners.
- Increases expertise and contributes to proficiency in shipping and other marine companies.
- Renders practical and theoretical support to maritime educations, post-graduate courses, training academies, etc.
- Reduces training costs.
